OVER MAYO'S BRIDGE. THE MANCHESTER COMPANY DESIRES

THIS PRIVILEGE. Application to be Made to the Chancery
Court-Very Desirable Route to be Built.

That there is to be a street railway over Mayo's bridge, forming another link in the chain that so strongly unites the cities of Richmond and Manchester there is now no doubt. Just when the work will begin or how long it will be before the cars will be running cannot yet be told.

As is generally known both the Man-chester Land and Improvement Com-pany and the Richmond City Union Passenger-Railway Company desired to build by this route, and for a long time there was some question as to which one would be the successful rival. At one time it appeared that the Council would allow both companies to run on Fourteenth street to Mayo's bridge, and that whichever one would pay the highest price for the privilege of cross-ing the bridge would be the winner.

THE MANCHESTER COMPANY. The Council has granted the Man chester company all that it asked for. The Street Committee has recom-mended to the Council an ordinance barring the Electric Line from extending its line on Fourteenth street south of the dock, which cuts it off from the bridge. There is little doubt that this report, which settles the matter as to which company shall build, will be adopted by the Council at its meeting Monday night. Even should the report not be adopted, and the Union contracts be greated the right of way company be granted the right of way on Fourteenth street, the two companies will stand on equal footing. Manchester company made application for what it wanted first, and has to this extent always had the advantage.

THE BRIDGE.

As soon as this question is definitely settled the next step is for the Man-chester company to make application to the Chancery Court for the right to cross Mayo's bridge, which is in the hands of a receiver—Mr. J. Thomp-son Brown. The charter granted this company by the Legislature authorizes the Court to grant the privileges asked. The only ques-tion to be determined is what shall be charged for the right to cross the bridge. The directors have not yet de termined when the application will be made. All such negotiations of course require time, and care has to be exercised in the mode of procedure. Certain it is that the petition will be presented at what is considered the earliest practicable time. WHEN WORK WILL BEGIN.

It cannot be told until the right to cross the bridge has been obtained when work on the road will beginwhether this fall or in the spring. The directors say that it will be greatly to their advantage to put the line in operation as soon as possible, but that it will be impracticable to begin work this fall unless it can be begun quite soon, as the severe weather of winter, in which no progress could be made, is near at

THE MATERIALS. Under the ordinance adopted by the Richmond Council the company is re-quired to use iron rails like those now laid on the City railway's track on Main street. These are made at but three places. One concern has on hand three ions, another two (not first-class iron) and the third has just discontinued the manufacture of this particular material, which is rapidly passing out of use: These rails cost forty-three dollars per ton; steel ones can be had for nine or

Mesers, DuVal & Robertson, of Manchester, have been awarded the contract for furnishing the timber to be used for sills, &c., and some of it has been placed in position on Fourteenth street THE ROUTE,

The Manchester company owns very valuable franchises in both cities, and when it has gained the right to cross the bridge its route from Seventh and Broad, in Richmond, to and up Hull street, in Manchester, to Seventh, and Seventh to Decatur, up Decatur to Twelfth, thence to McDonough, and along McDonough to its present termi nus, or to where it may hereafter be extended, will be a most desirable one. That the enterprise will be of convenience to the public, of benefit to both cities, especially the lower ward of Manchester, and prove a profitable investment, there is not a doubt. The company proposes to give a first-class

CIVIL-SERVICE REGULATIONS. Them in Future.

The appoincement was made some months ago that the Richmond post-office would be placed under civil-service regulations the 1st of October, and a civil-service board was formed-Messrs. Leroy S. Edwards (chairman), E. T. McCabe, and Mrs. Cornelia C. Mera, all clerks in the office, being appointed members.

The board has received no instructions whatever. In fact, Mr. Edwards only yesterday afternoon acknowledged the receipt of the notice of his appoint ment as chairman of the board. THE LADY DECLINES, Mrs. Mera, soon after she was ap prised of her appointment, wrote to the department asking that she be excused from serving in the capacity indicated, but the department insisted upon her serving. She has again written posi-tively declining, and an answer to this letter is daily expected.

About the only duties that the board will be called upon to perform will be to conduct the examination of candi-dates, which will be held here about twice each year.

THE MEANING OF IT.

Great care has been taken that in the examinations every applicant shall re-ceive justice. Each takes a number instead of giving his name, and the papers are looked over and mentioned by the numbers given on them.

The main object in placing offices under the regulations is to prevent removals and appointments for political purposes. When there is a vacancy to be filled the postmaster is required to select his man from one of the four candidates who have stood the highest examinations.

THE OTLEY TELEGRAM. Return to the City of Alderman

Frank Murphy. Alderman Murphy, whose name was mentioned in the testimony of Mr. Otley in connection with the forged telegram, returned to the city yesterday evening at 6 o'clock, and at once communicated with the chairman of the City Council committee and demanded a hearing.

Mr. Murphy has lately been engaged in business at Henderson, N. C., and will return to that town as soon as this business is dispatched.

The man who sent the telegram is said by the clerk at the Washington telegraph office to have stood at the desk and written the message. Mr. Mur-phy says that he will have no difficulty at all in proving that on the day in question he was in Richmond, and can show it by the evidence of persons who saw him here; by entries he made in his books, and by the receipt he has for a bill that day paid.

The Manchester reporter of the Dis-

The City Bs follows:

The City Democratic Committee will hold an important meeting to-morrow night at 8 octock in the Mayor's-Courtroom. The chief object of the meeting is the appointment of a committee of fifty from each ward to act in conjunction with the City Committee and make a house-to-house canvass. That the best men and those who can give most time to the work may be selected, it is important that there shall be present the full membership from every ward. A large force of hands are employed night and day repairing the break or washout of the forelay of the Old Dominion Cotton-Mills. The headgates were gotten in such condition yesterday that they could be lowered so as to shut the water out of the canal. This done, the work at the break can be prosecuted without interference on the part of the water. The supply of hydrant water in the city was cut of late yesterday afternoon, and no doubt will remain "off" until the damage is repaired. This, together with the fact that all of the mills are kept idle, being considered, it is of the utmost importance that the work be done as quickly as possible.

OUR CITY POLITICS. THE WORKINGMEN'S CLUB HAVE A FIRE DEMONSTRATION.

Speeches from Colonel A. S. Buford, Hon. George D. Wise, and Several Others.

A rally under the auspices of the Union Workingmen's Democratic Club of Clay and Monroe Wards was held at the old Pine-Street Baptist church last night. The building was crowded to its utmost capacity, and a band, which the Monroe-Ward Club brought with it, furnished music during the evening. The candidates occupied seats on the stage.

MR. CARTER. After the body had been called to order by President Pettitt Hon, H. L. Carter was introduced. He began by saying that he hoped his being called upon first would not be indicative of the result of the primary—"the first shall be last and the last shall be first." He pleaded with all his hearers to vote in the primary and sustain the reputation of the city. Republicanism, like every other ism, is hydra-headed, and it now comes up in several forms—one of which is called "Reform," but there is no true reform in a party whose sub stratum is hate and sole desire spoils.

MR. CURTIS. Mr. John A. Curtis was next presented. He was a Democrat, he said, from head to foot, and he was ready to give battle in behalf of the true Democratic party to-night. No man would work harder than he. In reference to the other candidates from the East End, Mr. Curtis referred to Mr. Valentine and Mr. Walace, "and," he added, "if I am not elected Mr. Wallace, who is a good Baptist, can pray and Mr. Valentine can sing over my dead political body.

CAPTAIN O'BANNON. The next speaker was Captain J. H. O'Bannon. He had no more fear of Democratic victory in November than he did that the sun would rise to-mor-row. He could recollect the time when the poor man in Virginia could not vote. Who put the ballot in his hand? who but the Democratic party? What party has passed laws in favor of labor? The Democratic party; and the speak-er defied any one of his hearers to contradict his statements.

Captain O'Bannon said if he was not nominated he would he would still do all he could in the canvass for the cause of Democracy.

MR. TYLER,

Mr. Lyon G. Tyler was the fourth speaker. He reviewed the course of Mahone and John Wise, and showed how they governed their subjects with rules as severe as the laws of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not. He asked his hearers for their suffrage. He was an unworthy subject, he said, but he thought he could be of some service in the Legislature, A good many of his friends—schoolmates in the past—would be there, and he thought he could influence their votes. MR. HASKINS.

Mr. Mende Haskins said that he was sorry that an operation which had just been performed on his throat pre-vented him from speaking, but he would say that if the Democratic banner was put into his hands in October he would carry it to victory in November. Further, he would predict that in November the State of Virginia would wheel into the Democratic column, and he did not believe Richmond would be Rund missing.

COLONEL BUFORD. When Colonel A. S. Buford was introduced he was greeted with most movements of the city. We are apt to forget the value of sustaining the Democracy. No man except those who erceted it and stood by it, when all the learning of the world was against it, could appreciate its true value. The Senate of the United States was nearly equally divided politically. Very soon the Legislature would have to elect a member. So long as he was a elect a member. So long as he was a Virginian and a Democrat—and that would be until he was laid under the clods—he would never vote for the reelection of the present representative a man who under false banners had tried to lead the Democratic party into the Republican ranks, He had no patience with the Republican party, with its Shermans and Forakers, sho never appeared in public without maligning, traducing, or misrepresent ing the people of the South—people who are just as true and loyal to the Union as any in Massachusetts or Ohio or anywhere else. And as to these Reformers-these people who were going into the Republican association—to these he would say, If you want to re-form backwards that's the way to go, but if you want to reform anything in the Democratic party stay there. There was no reform in the Democratic party.

MR. VALENTINE. Mr. R. S. M. Valentine congratulated Clay Ward on its enthusiasm, and he was sure the Democratic banner would wave triumphantly in Novem-

Mr. I. T. Wallace was the next speaker introduced. He saw, he said, very evidence around him that the Democratic party was going to win in the impending battle. Mr. Wallace stated that Mr. Mullen, in the Labor Herald this week, had said that 3,000 votes would not be east in the primary election. "My friends," continued Mr. Wallace, "Mr. Mullen would Mr. Wallace, never make a poet. He hasn't got will be held until after the Democratic imagination enough." [Laughter.]

MR. CONNER.

Mr. J. H. Conner next spoke. He said there was no Reform party to-day, nd the coming election was a contes between Democracy and Republican-ism. During his speech Mr. Conner said there were several men present who came there to interrupt and not to listen. If there were any present who wanted to ask him any question he would be glad if hey would come forward and not talk oehind his back or at a distance. Noody came forward, and Mr. Conner continued. He referred to the Labor Elerata, which had spoken of him, and in regard to its editor Mr. Conner desired to say that when he had a man's interest at heart he would place that man on the pinnacle of fame, but when a man thinks proper to leave him when he is about to be lead into the Republican party then he condemns him in the strongest terms. "Such a man is unfit for the name of man and of the fellowship of our common brotherhood." CAPTAIN WISE, Hon. George D. Wise made the closing speech. As he was brought forward and introduced it was some time before the cheers of the audience would permit him to proceed. He be-gan by saying: "I thank, you, gentle-men, for your very warm and cordial welcome, and were it earlier in the speak to you, not because I am fond of speaking, but to remind the people of certain things which have occurred in the recent past.

programme will be made as attractive as possible, and will embrace solos and choruses and instrumental renditions the recent past.

"We are engaged to-day in the discussion of who shall bear our banners in the Legislature. All these gentlemen here are good—all good Democrats. The continued case of George Banks, the colored boy who was arrested for driving over John C. West, the little at n of Mr. Montgomery West, and John Nelson, a small colored boy, was tried in the Police Court yesterday morning. Several witnesses testified that Banks was driving a horse to a jumper very rapidly down Franklin street near Monroe Park on the afternoon of September 25th, and saw him drive over the two children; that he did not seem to make any effort to check up his horse. None of the witnesses could say that the horse was going at a speed greater than six miles an hour, but thought that the boy was a reckless and careless driver.

The Police Justice said that the evidence failed to show malice or any violation of the city ordinances; consequently he would have to dismiss the case, but that the parent of the boy case, but that the parent of the boy who was injured could bring civil action against the employer of the accused for

The driver was admonished to drive more carefully in future.
